THE EAGLE VALLEY HUMANE SOCIETY

HISTORY: The Eagle Valley Humane Society is a fully accredited 501c3 organization established in 1973 to address the needs of homeless animals in Eagle, County, Colorado and the limited animal control services available at that time. Today the Humane Society retains its highly visible and respected role as the primary leader in public outreach programs that affect both people and animals.

MISSION: The mission of the Eagle Valley Humane Society: The prevention of cruelty to animals, the enforcement of animal cruelty laws, the relief of suffering among animals, the promotion of humane education, the facilitation of the adoption of homeless animals that are seeking forever homes, spreading community awareness of animal issues, and the prevention of pet overpopulation through spay and neuter programs.

Check out our website at adoptafriend.org for more information about our programs, current educational programs and other fundraising efforts. You can find us on Facebook too.

Awesome firefighter rescues injured dog

During Fourth of July fireworks, a Vizsla named Rue escaped from her Salt Lake City, Utah home and got lost in the mountain trails near her home. Firefighter Tony Stowe and his crew responded to the frantic call from someone who spotted the dog on the Bonneville Shoreline Trail. The crew hiked over two miles to reach the scared dog and when they found her, they realized she had hurt her paw.

Tony “scooped her up”, put her on his shoulders and began the long hike back down the hill.

For the next hour, Tony trekked down with the 53-pound dog on his back not making any complaints.

The crew helped out and by the time they reached the bottom, Tony had decided to adopt her if she didn’t have a family.

It turns out Rue does have a loving family and after a scan of her microchip, Rue was reunited with them. But I think she will always have a soft spot in her heart for the heroic fireman that saved her.
