THE EAGLE VALLEY HUMANE SOCIETY

CURRENT EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMS

- Media Coverage: We appear weekly on live television and radio spots on several different local stations. The Vail Daily newspaper spots feature our adoptable animals and information regarding wildlife, domesticated animals, bite prevention and seasonal topics. Extensive media coverage is our biggest asset to reaching the community so they know what animals are waiting to be adopted.
- Bite Prevention Program The Bite Prevention Presentations to school children help them understand a dog's and a cat's body language. This is tremendously important for cats and dogs, and children. Each year we present our 45 minute program to several 100 students.
- Paw Champions Program Paw Champions Presentations to school children include ideas on how to help needy animals.
- "Kind News" EVHS provides the "Kind News" publication monthly to all elementary school teachers, upon request, for each student in the teacher's classroom at a cost of $20 per teacher.
- Website In 2001, Tumo Solutions of Avon developed a website for EVHS. The website is being maintained by Debbie Buckley. This displays all the animals that are up for adoption and is full of additional information on our programs.

Of course, it's okay

Animals Love Each Other

Turbo Roo was born with only his two hind legs, and upon his breeder's realization that the dog would require more attention than he could handle, surrendered him. The Chihuahua was subsequently adopted by technician Ashley Looper, at The Downtown Veterinarian in Indianapolis, Indiana. She set up a small fundraising campaign for the 6 month old puppy to finance a set of bespoke wheels to assist his mobility.

News of the story and initiative caught the attention of Mark Deadrick in San Diego who decided to do his part and designed a small cart with wheels to support Turbo. The custom wheel-chair was printed using a makerbot 3D printer and outfitted with skateboard wheels for easy roaming.

We Love Our Animals

Available at Eagle Valley Humane Society

Rudy is a calm, cool, and collected guy who mingles with the cats at our adoption center but is content to be by himself as well.

Ricco - 3 year old chihuahua mix fostered with many other dogs. Likes to cuddle with his people and go on hikes. Will do best in a home without cats or kids.

Available at Eagle County Animal Shelter

Two Shih Tzus are available for adoption. Cookie is black and white and Gordo is all white. They are both seven years old, great with kids and other small dogs.

Rusty is a three year old orange tabby, neutered male, who is great with people and very affectionate.

Cheyenne is a one year old female tabby who is great with other cats, dogs, and kids.
